

Publishing and Journalism on Kickstarter

From poetry to periodicals to photojournalism, nearly 24,000 Publishing and Journalism projects have been launched on Kickstarter, backed by an amazing $70 million in support. We think that's worth celebrating. That's why, this February, we'll be hosting free readings and discussions at our headquarters in Brooklyn, and featuring great publishing and journalism stories online.

Events

What's Broken Is Broken: A Literary Exploration of Break-Ups

FEB 13

7:00pm

at 58 Kent Street, Brooklyn, NY 11122

Moderator: Margot Atwell (Kickstarter)

Readings by: Lux Alptraum, Dolan Morgan, Daniel Jose Older, Sid March, Ben Rosenfeld

Lovestruck poetry, romance novels, and the sweet bliss of happily ever after: everybody loves a love story. So this Valentine's weekend — on Friday the 13th — we're hosting a literary celebration of love . . . gone awry. Come laugh or cry with us, as readers share stories of heartache and healing. Don't worry, there will be wine.

---

Talking Shop: How to Pay Your Writers

FEB 17

7:00pm

at 58 Kent Street, Brooklyn, NY 11122

Moderator: Sari Botton (The New York Times, The Rumpus)

Panelists: Ryan Chapman (BOMB), Ron Garner (Silence in the Library), Lisa Lucas (Guernica)

Exposure and prestige may be lovely motivators, but when asking potential writers to contribute to your publication, let's face it — money talks. A panel of experts from a diverse array of outlets will discuss the ways they've raised funds so their writers could get paid.

---

Talking Shop: Getting Started in Podcasting

FEB 24

7:00pm

at 58 Kent Street, Brooklyn, NY 11122

Moderator: PJ Vogt (Reply All)

Panelists: Farai Chideya (One with Farai, PRI), Hillary Frank (The Longest Shortest Time, WNYC), Jaime Green (The Catapult), Benjamin Walker (Theory of Everything, Radiotopia)

A frank and funny discussion about the art of making radio shows. This all-star panel will discuss how they started out, the challenges they've overcome, and the innovations they're continuing to make.